

Grow your business with beauty therapy apprentices

Apprenticeships are good for business – grow your business, customer base, income and profit by training an apprentice.

What do I need to take on an apprentice?

- A qualified beauty therapist to supervise your apprentice. They need to hold the New Zealand certificate in Beauty Therapy level 4 or equivalent. Experienced beauty therapy professionals without this certificate can apply to become qualified through the HITO Qualification by Experience programme.
- Time for training. A new apprentice will need some supervision, but the more time you invest into them at the beginning, the less they will need as they learn.
- The right equipment. Apprentices learn all their skills at work, so you'll need the right equipment available to them.

Apprenticeships are good for business

Apprentices train while they work, learning all the technical and people skills needed to help bring customers, income and profit to your business.

- Apprentices can look after important workplace administration and client care tasks, freeing you and your senior staff to bring in more income and profit.
- Apprentices build their own clientele as they learn, adding to your client base and income.
- You can train your apprentice from day one to fit your brand.
- You can find the right staff for your business no matter where you are in New Zealand.
- By regularly taking on apprentices you'll always have staff coming through to fill senior positions.
- Research shows employers see a return on investment after taking on an apprentice.
- You can plan your training to fit your client and business needs.

How does an apprenticeship work?

HITO supports the apprentice and employer during the qualification by:

- visiting you and your apprentice regularly to provide training support and guidance
- providing a qualified assessor to evaluate your apprentice's progress
- providing training resources to guide the apprentice through the practical and theoretical components of the qualification
- providing training resources to help you train your apprentice.

Your apprentice will:

- gain the New Zealand Certificate in Beauty Therapy Level 4.
- learn about manicure, pedicure, nail treatments, waxing, eyebrow and eyelash tinting, eyebrow shaping, makeup, facials, health and safety, booking appointments, caring for clients, retail skills, consultation, skin, anatomy, and health theory
- complete theory assessments, case studies, and practical assessments to work towards their qualification
- pay $30 a week for the duration of the apprenticeship
- receive fees-free funding for two years of training, if eligible.

Your apprentice can start their apprenticeship at any time during the year.

A beauty therapy apprenticeship takes approximately two years to complete.

There are no fees to the employer.

Finding your apprentice

We recommend you choose an apprentice based on their personality, attitude and fit with your business. Then, use apprenticeship training to ensure they have the skills, knowledge and professional qualification required for career and business success.

We can help.

- You can advertise for apprentices through our Job page at: www.hito.org.nz/jobs.
- You can use our school Gateway programme as a low risk way of finding potential employees.

No qualification? No problem

Don't have the right qualification to train an apprentice? Not a problem. You can apply to us to convert your existing qualification over to the right qualification through our Qualification by Experience programme.

Your Industry Training Organisation

HITO is the Industry Training Organisation for Hairdressing, Beauty Therapy and Barbering.

We develop the New Zealand qualifications to support apprenticeship and on-job training for career and business success.

The government appoints us as the standard setting body to work with industry and NZQA to develop qualifications.

Our vision is for 100% of people in our industries to be 100% New Zealand qualified.
